() Defoe's ENGLISH USE OF ENGLISH is pellucid but unpretentious: gets its message over with economy and competence.

() Georgina Masson: QUEEN CHRISTINA (of Sweden) published Dec. 1968, a 400 page biography. This is the best, completest, most accurate and objective as against many of her biographies that are false, wrong, biased. Queen Christina was "an astute politician, but made many errors of judgment.. was inordinately proud and arrogant, was an adept at dissembling and would often stop to lying. She was a shrewd judge of persons but could always be fooled by specious and good looking rascals..... Although she became very devout in her last years, she hardly mentions Christ in her writings; it is doubtful whether she believed in the Incarnation and the Redemption... slanderous books about her continue to be published (even now) based in large part on the scandal sheets issued by her enemies. She was said to be a hermaphrodite. She had an aversion to childbirth. Her conversion to Catholicism was calculated: she believed she could find more toleration and freedom in it than in Lutheranism; she found it the most convenient for traveling. She said 'the fable of Christ is of great use to the Roman Church'. Her religious calm was shattered by the discovery that her confessor Molinos was a heretic and guilty of sexual aberrations with his women devotees. (1) Queen Christina believed in religious freedom and lack of racial prejudice. (2) A boundless self-satisfaction pervaded her colloquies with God. (From a review of G. Masson's Biography of Queen Christina) .

() Leslie A. Fiedler - Quote from, himself summarizing an article in "GSA Critic" May 1974. "Popular literature -- sentimental, horror, porno-graphic -- titillates the emotions, releasing the reader from rationality and allowing him a moment of ecstasy. To define a true majority literature (i.e. low cultural--PB) we should evaluate a work not by ethics or aesthetics but by the ecstasy it produces." Comment by PB: If a literature of refined cultural taste, mature intellectual statements, and civilized courtesy is to be rejected because it admits self-control, then we shall move backwards.

(^{OLNE}) ESOTERIC TEACHINGS OF THE TIBETAN TANTRA, edited by Charles A. Muses, translated by Chang Chen Chi. This pithy volume gathers together between its covers two basic handbooks of Tibetan teaching hitherto undisclosed to the West - a set of tantric initiation rituals and the "Six Yogas of Naropa" with Tsong-khapa's commentary. Even in Tibet the Tantric Initiation Rituals are hard to come by. The manuscript contains a remarkable chapter on prophecy, which was doubtless destined to come to light at this time. The prophecy dating from at least the 17th century prefigures the Red Chinese desecration of Tibet. Professor Chang makes a competent translator, as he became familiar with technical lamaistic usage and phrasing during the course of a stay of years in Tibet's famous eastern province of Kham. Switzerland, 1961, 305 pages. revised 1961 in Swiss translation UMLV LNE.

(^{OLNE}) FOUR LAMAS OF DOLPO, by D.L. Snellgrove. Dolpo, until the end of the 18th century part of Western Tibet, is a region largely unknown even today. These autobiographies of Four Tibetan Lamas (15th to 18th centuries) were dictated to their pupils by the lamas themselves. This is a captivating work. 1967, U.S.A.

() Died. Yvor Winters, 67, poet, critic and longtime (1937-66) Stanford literature professor; of cancer; in Palo Alto, Calif. As a critic, he was formidable, engaging his peers in bitter polemics. He preferred Robert Bridges to T.S. Eliot, once called Ezra Pound "a barbarian loose in a museum". His own poetry, for which he won Yale's 1960 Bollingen Prize, was a mirror of the man, cool, sharp, diamond-hard, as in his definition of his work: Few minds will come to this. / The poet's only bliss / Is a cold certitude - / Laurel, archaic, rude. EA. Robinson KA 4906 LNE. LIB

^{OLNE} BONHOEFFER, Dietrich: Christology. Bonhoeffer's book is not only of prime importance for an understanding of his later works, but it also helps us to discover the ever-present Christ in our own existence, in the history and meaning of Creation.

() ESOTERIC TEACHINGS OF THE TIBETAN TANTRA, edited by Charles A. Muses, translated by Chans Gnan Gyi. () Arthur Guirdham: "THE CATHARS AND REINCAR-NATION", pu. Spearman. A housewife who went to a psychiatrist because she was screaming during nightmares became convinced that she was reincarnated from the 13th century as a member of the Cathars, a sect of French heretics. The story is told by the doctor, Arthur Guirdham. The book is being translated for publication in France with a foreword by Lawrence Durrell, the novelist. He lives there and "knows his stuff about the Cathars," Dr. Guirdham told me yesterday. He has himself become strangely drawn to the Midi, where the Cathars existed. They were persecuted to extinction by the Inquisition which, he says, was "designed to put down Catharism."

() Yasunar Kawabata: "THOUSAND CRANES", novel about Tea Ceremony.

() Florida Scott-Maxwell: "THE MEASURE OF MY DAYS". At eighty-two Mrs. Scott-Maxwell felt impelled to write about her strong reactions to being old, and to the time in which we live. Until almost the end this note book was not intended for anyone to see, but the author finally decided that she wanted her thoughts and feelings to reach others. Mrs Scott-Maxwell writes: "I was astonished to find how intensely one lives in one's eighties. The last years seemed a culmination and by concentrating on them one became more truly oneself. Though old I felt full of potential life. It pulsed in me even as I was conscious of shrinking into a final form which it was my task and stimulus to complete." The territory of the old is not Mrs Scott-Maxwell's only concern. In taking the measure of the sum of her days as a woman of the twentieth century, she confronts some of the most disturbing conflicts of human nature - the need for differentiation as against equality, the recognition of the evil forces in our nature - and her insights are challenging and illuminating. The vision that emerges from her accumulated experience of life makes this a remarkable document that speaks to all ages. (Oct. 1968).

() 1011 Pages Before Breakfast, Brisbane. After a 13-day Army reading course, Capt. Rex Clarke, of Brisbane, can comfortably read "Gone with the Wind" before breakfast. The complete works of Shakespeare would take him about two days and the Encyclopaedia Britannica a fortnight. Capt. Clarke has been proclaimed the fastest reader in the Australian Army. He can read at the rate of 4780 words a minute. Army experts taught him and other pupils to read slabs of type by quick-recognition scanning. An Army spokesman said it was believed that Capt. Clarke was the fastest reader in Australia. The Army believed the previous reading record, by a young woman university student, was 3000 words a minute. The spokesman said Capt. Clarke graduated from the course able to retain 90 per cent of what he read.

() Ghose, Girishchandra: "MYSTIC AND SOCIETY" -
A Point of View.

() Smart, Nalin: "THE YOGI AND THE DEVOTE" -
The interplay between the Upanishads and Catholic Theology. The author considers that we need to present a new form of natural theology, which would indicate the relevance of religious experience and ritual to what is given in revelation.

() Kenko: "ESSAYS IN ILLUMINATION". The author is known by his name as a Buddhist priest. The book is a central work in the development of Japanese taste.

() G.S. Woff: "JOURNEY THROUGH THIS WORLD".
Part of the book is devoted to a summary of Gurd-jieff's strange booklet, "Herald of the Coming Good", and throughout the narrative there runs as a central theme the teachings of Gurdjieff and the striving of the narrator to carry out in practice what he had received from Gurdjieff.

() Halsey Jelfort: "THE TEACHERS OF GURDJIEFF".
This book marks a turning point in Gurdjieff's studies, for it throws light on the origins of his teaching. Its essential authenticity is guaranteed by a scholar at the heart of the movement.

() Thomas Merton: "WORDS OF DESTRUCTION". This work is addressed to all men of good will in our () William G. Gray: "THE LADDER OF LIGHTS". Here is a step by step guide to the Tree of Life and the four worlds of the Qabalists. Israel Regardie was greatly impressed by this commentary. The author claims the Tree of Life works in relation to consciousness just like a computer. The Tree operates through the intelligent consciousness of living beings, whether embodied in this world or not. It acts as a sort of Universal Exchange throughout the entire chain of consciousness sharing its scheme and the extent of this is ineluctable. The Tree provides the means of receiving Inner World contacts with types of consciousness normally inaccessible to the ordinary human mind. Practical occult experience is only possible to those who work the Tree through the Four Worlds of the Qabalists. The study of this work holds promise for the individual.

This apologia is a document of great poignancy, composed in most elegant Arabic, and translated with equal elegance. Professor Arberry has long been recognized as the greatest living interpreter of Islamic texts.

() The enquiry^{to} of ten made by those who wish to study more widely and more deeply as to what books we recommend which will contribute to a fuller understanding of these tenets. Unfortunately there is not in existence a single book which treats in a modern way of them as a whole from the special standpoint which we have adopted. However, there are other excellent studies of individual tenets, albeit from other standpoints. Bierens de Haan, Johannes Diderik 1866-1943

1891 Dr.theology, dissertation on Shaftesbury.

A number of years Protestant clergyman, later devoted himself wholly to philosophic and literary studies. No other Dutch philosopher has reached so many in the period between the two world wars. His style was literary. In 1907 he founded the Dutch "Tijdschrift voor Wijsbegeerte" = Review for Philosophy. His philosophy is mystical. Although it contains elements of PLato, Spinoza, Kant and Hegel it has its own character. It is metaphysical idealism with as its practical puspose inner harmony.

He often lectured at the International School for Philosphy at Amersfoort.

1891 Dr. Theology, dissertation on Scholasticism.
A number of years Protestant clergyman, later devoted himself wholly to philosophical and literary studies. No other Dutch philosopher has reached so many in the period between the two world wars. His style was literary. In 1907 he founded the Dutch "Wijdschap voor Wetenschappen" = Review for Philosophy.
His philosophy is mystical. Although it contains elements of Plato, Schopenhauer, Kant and Hegel it has its own character.
It is metaphysical idealism with as its practical purpose inner harmony.
He often lectured at the International School for Philosophy at Amsterdam.

"THE FUTURE IS NOW: SIGNIFICANCE of Precognition"

1961

An analysis of the various hypotheses which have been advanced to explain the precognitive faculty, leading to a discussion of the time-sense of human consciousness, and to the overriding significance of the present moment. It ends as an outline of a way of life.
